Declaration of commitment to FSC values

Signing this Declaration, ALC “Interresources” explicitly states that it is not directly or indirectly involved in the following unacceptable activities:

- 1) Illegal logging or trade in illegal wood or forest products;
- 2) Violation of traditional and human rights in forestry operations;
- 3) Destruction of high conservation values in forestry operations;
- 4) Significant conversion of forests to plantations or non-forest use;
- 5) Introduction of genetically modified organisms in forestry operations;
- 6) Violation of any of the ILO Core Conventions as defined in the ILO Declaration of Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work dd. 1998, namely:

Freedom of association

The principle of freedom of association is the main principle underlying the activities of ILO. Its meaning is in recognition of the rights of workers and employers for freedom of association as well as for exercising means for protection of their interests at the labour market and at working place. It also covers the freedom of bargaining as to the conditions of employment and labour.

Elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labour

This basic right embodies a simple idea that no one can be forced to labour, i.e. to do work based on or under the threat of punishment. The commitment to this right means putting all efforts towards the elimination of forced or compulsory labour in all its forms.

Effective abolition of child labour

Childhood is a period of life that should be devoted to education and development but not to labour. Therefore each and every child must have a possibility to be gaining its physical, mental and ethic development to reach its full potential for entering one’s working life at the legally established age. The main priority, according to this principle, is the abolition of the worst forms of child labour.

Elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation

This right reflects the notion of justice. Ensuring equality in possibilities and conditions in all spheres of labour activities including professional training, employment and payment for work as well as working conditions will pave the way for individuals and societies to the maximum realization of their human potential.

In its daily activities our company demonstrates its compliance with the requirements of operational health and safety by means of effective plans for provision of compliance of work conditions at our working places to the requirements of national legislation in the sphere of health and safety and fire safety.
